FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT

Entered at the post-office at Frankfort, Kentucky, as second-class mailable matter.

GEO. A. LEWIS, Editor and Pub.

FRANKFORT, APRIL 20, 1895.

Haven't a Word to Say.

We have felt like kicking when our best news items have been "adopted" by correspondents in neighboring towns and sent as "specials" to the big dailies, or when whole column articles have been stolen bodily from us, without even quotation marks, by a neighboring exchange, but when one of our items goes the rounds and then comes back to us credited to a Tennessee editor, and said editor given fits for having written it, that's all right, for if our Tennessee brother is to get all the cussing he is entitled to the item also, and we are just like the little boy the hen run over—haven't a word to say.

Wanted to See a Sample.

We learn from an exchange that a father in Indiana with eight marriageable daughters, advertised as a last resort to get them off of his hands. He received the following telegram: "Am a bachelor and wealthy. Will marry one of your daughters. Send sample at once." The late Capt. Robert Collins, of this county, once offended a young man who was visiting one of his younger daughters very highly by telling him that he "must not pick his gals, but take them as they come," but the "wealthy bachelor" above seems to be willing to let the old man make a selection for him.

Ankle Sprained.

Master James Hughes attempted to jump from a fence to the ground, at his father's residence on Second street, Tuesday afternoon, and in doing so slipped on the wet plank which caused him to alight on the side of his right foot, spraining his ankle so badly that he will be confined to the house for many weeks.

Rebuilding the Stable.

The livery stable of Mrs. Kate Mahoney, on Main street opposite the Capital Hotel, which was destroyed by fire last fall, is being rebuilt. It will be a substantial brick building, and a great improvement in appearance on the one destroyed.

Gentleman Jim.

James J. Corbett, the pugilist, passed through the city on the 3 o'clock L. & N. train Tuesday afternoon and quite a number of people were at the station to get a sight of His Nibs.

Being Touched Up.

The front of the City Hall is receiving a much-needed coat of paint and will be considerably improved in appearance and freshened up thereby.

Cabinet Repair Shop.

I have just opened a cabinet repair shop and upholstering establishment in the room in the Fintel block on Bridge street, formerly occupied by Reock & Donaldson, where I am prepared to do all kinds of work in my line.
